

TWO AMERICANS KILLED BY FLYING MEXICAN BULLETS

Corporal Jones of Seventh Infantry Shot in Thigh by Carranza Soldier and Restaurant Employee Paralyzed by Fire From Villa Machine Gun on Opening Day of Attack.

FIRST RUSH COMES SHORTLY AFTER NOON

Attacking Troops Begin Digging Themselves In on Reaching Wire Entanglements on East Side of Agua Prieta—Calles' Forces Using Searchlights in Directing Guns, But Volleys Seem to be Going High.

Douglas, Ariz., Nov. 1.—Corporal Jones of company G, Seventh Infantry, late tonight was shot through both thighs by a Carranza soldier, who leaped from his trench at Agua Prieta, shouting "Viva Carranza!" and fired six shots at Jones, who was on patrol near the boundary in the rear of the customs house. The American is not seriously wounded.

General Villa's attack on Agua Prieta began shortly after noon today and continued late into the night. The lull in the afternoon fighting ended at 6 o'clock and with carefully placed shots from field pieces, rapid fire rifles, Villa kept the Carranza forces in the Mexican town defended by General P. Calles Calles incessantly in action.

Losses on Calles' side up to 10 o'clock tonight were eight killed and twenty-four wounded, according to his own reports. Villa, according to the same source of information, had been repulsed with two hundred killed in one rush to night upon the barbed wire entanglements south and east of the Agua Prieta defenses. One Villa deserter who came across the line reports he had seen but two killed.

American Citizen Wounded. On the American side, Louis R. Taylor, a restaurant employee who was among a throng of spectators and Mexican women and children refugees at the United States custom house, was wounded. A fusillade of bullets from a machine gun on the Villa side splattered among the crowd, one hitting Taylor on the back as he turned to flee, and paralyzed him.

Villa ceased firing at 6:40 o'clock, the Carranza garrison keeping up a hot fire from all guns for hours afterward. At each lull Villa's gunners and machine gun operators near the border on the east side of Agua Prieta would place a few shots and again start the garrison digging deep into the supply of ammunition which Calles said amounted to more than fifteen million rounds.

Bullets Strike Custom House. In the machine gun fusillade at the custom house several bullets struck the building. One plunged through a window near Major George C. Stull, army chaplain, who was sitting on the porch. Another struck a post on the northern end of the building but a foot or two from the head of Second Lieutenant Frank F. Showden of the eleventh infantry. The first battalion of the custom house infantry was on duty at the custom house. Major John B. Bennett and

HERMAN RIDDER DIES END COMES VERY SUDDENLY FOR PROMINENT GERMAN-AMERICAN CITIZEN.

Treasurer of Democratic National Committee and Also Editor of Staats Zeitung.

By The Associated Press. New York, Nov. 1.—Herman Ridder, treasurer of the democratic national committee, and publisher of the New York Staats Zeitung, died suddenly late today at his home in this city.

The cause of Mr. Ridder's death was kidney trouble in an acute form. He had been ill about ten months and for two weeks past his condition had been critical. He was in his sixty-fifth year.

Members of his family were summoned to the bedside late today when it was seen that he could last but little longer. Among a large number of prominent German-American citizens of the United States, Herman Ridder was one of the most conspicuous figures in the newspaper publishing business and in politics. His associates in the publishing business had honored him at one time with the presidency of the American Newspaper association and for many years he held high office in the Associated Press as treasurer and director. In politics he was such a factor that he was talked of at the national democratic convention in St. Louis as a possible nominee for vice president on the ticket with Bryan, whom, however, Mr. Ridder opposed at the time. He also was discussed later as a likely selection for ambassador to Germany.

Following the nomination of Bryan at the 1908 convention after former Governor Charles N. Haskell of Oklahoma had resigned as treasurer of the national democratic committee because of affiliation with Standard Oil interests, Mr. Ridder was chosen as treasurer, and in his own name and those of his brothers, he contributed $37,000, the largest single contribution to the Bryan campaign.

Mr. Ridder was owner and editor of the New York Staats Zeitung, one of the foremost German newspapers in the United States, and through it he was particularly conspicuous recently in his ardent defense of the German position in the European war.

Mr. Ridder was one of the so-called "New York New York" men from birth until his death. The story is told of a dinner which he gave to twenty-five New York men at the time Col. Clowry first established himself in New York. Mr. Ridder was known as a raw country of imposing size, so big, in fact, that when one enters a sleeping car at Texarkana he wakes up ten days later while passing through San Antonio. He is known as a raw country of imposing size, so big, in fact, that when one enters a sleeping car at Texarkana he wakes up ten days later while passing through San Antonio.

He was born March 5, 1851. His German parents were not far removed from poverty—so near that young Ridder began earning his own living when at three years old as an errand boy in a hat store.

By stages he served in a Wall street broker's office, as employee of a fire insurance company and then as an insurance agent. He was also interested in politics and at that early age, before he cast his first vote, he stumped the whole lower East Side of New York City and won for his favorite a nomination for district judge, later elected his man.

He entered the newspaper business when he was 27 years old, by establishing the first Roman Catholic newspaper in New York City in German, and soon afterward started the Catholic News in English, which in a short time became recognized as a leading Catholic paper of the country.

In 1890 Mr. Ridder became a stockholder in the Daily Staats Zeitung and was elected treasurer and manager. Under his direction that paper assumed a leading position in its field. He became president of the corporation in 1904 and at his time of death he was publisher of influential morning and afternoon papers in Germany.

Officials Displeased at Hocking Incident

By The Associated Press. Washington, Nov. 1.—Officials formally indicated today their displeasure at the action of Great Britain in seizing the American ship Hocking because of the alleged validity in its transfer of registry. The state department will insist that the nationality of an American ship is determined by the flag and not by ownership and will recall previous positions taken by Great Britain which are said to conform to the American point of view.

New York-Trinity Game Cancelled. By The Associated Press.

New York, Nov. 1.—New York university tonight cancelled its football game scheduled with Trinity for tomorrow because the faculty committee of the former school held that George Brickley, a Trinity player, was a professional. Brickley, who is a brother of the famous Harvard punter, Charles Brickley, once tried out with the Philadelphia Athletics and thus, the New York university faculty committee held, he lost his amateur standing. The Bucknell college team will play New York university here tomorrow.

Harvard Star Back in Line. By The Associated Press.

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 1.—Harvard's hopes for the football game with Princeton tomorrow Saturday were brightened today when Enwright, the half-back who was injured in the Penn State game Saturday, reported for practice apparently in good condition. Enwright was kept out of the Cornell game because of an injured leg.

Ertle's Claim Not Admitted. By The Associated Press.

New York, Nov. 1.—The New York state boxing commission today declined to recognize Johnny Ertle of St. Paul as bantamweight champion of the world. A Brooklyn boxing club before which Ertle will appear in a contest this week applied for formal recognition of him as champion by virtue of his recent victory over Kid Williams on a foul.

TEXAS NEGLECTING GREAT OPPORTUNITY, SAYS ALLEN D. ALBERT

INTERNATIONAL PRESIDENT OF ROTARY CLUBS DECLARES STATE SHOULD BEGIN ADVANCING CAMPAIGN OF EDUCATION AT ONCE.

By The Associated Press. New York, Nov. 1.—Whether women shall be permitted to vote is the overshadowing question to be decided at the New York state election tomorrow.

A revised constitution, drawn by a convention with Elihu Root as its president at Albany last summer also is to be voted on and three congressmen, a full assembly, eleven supreme court justices and some county and city officials are to be elected, but of these questions are running poor seconds in interest to equal suffrage.

The battle of the women campaign has made the campaign picturesque. The speaking campaign ended with a 24-hour suffrage meeting at Times Square, but the suffragists' work is not done. More than six thousands women who will work as voters at the polls tomorrow agreed tonight to rise shortly after 4 o'clock and assemble to be at the polls at 5:30 o'clock.

Leaders of both sides expressed optimism regarding the result of the election. The estimates of the suffragists leaders are more conservative than those of the anti-suffragists.

Prohibition Issue in Maryland. By The Associated Press.

Baltimore, Nov. 1.—The legislature to be chosen at tomorrow's election in Maryland will be asked to pass upon statewide prohibition. The anti-statewide prohibition, led by Dr. Thomas M. Hare, believes that the vigorous campaign for temperance just closed will secure enough votes to insure the enactment of the measure, which suffered defeat in the two preceding general assemblies. It provides for the submission of the question to the electorate.

Woman suffrage also was an issue, although not aggressively pushed, and the next legislature will be asked to submit the question to the voters.

Indications point to a heavy vote tomorrow and many political wiseacres predict a close election. The democrats are claiming the election of Emerson E. Harrington, their candidate for governor, and the entire state ticket and a good majority in the legislature. The republicans express confidence in the election of Ovington E. Weller as governor and look for an increased representation of their party in the legislature.

Hard Fight in Pennsylvania. By The Associated Press.

Philadelphia, Nov. 1.—Although somewhat overshadowed by the keenly contested majority campaign in this city and by fights for local offices in some other sections of the state, much interest has been aroused throughout Pennsylvania in the vote on woman suffrage amendment tomorrow. The suffragists have conducted a spectacular campaign, including a tour of every one of the sixty-seven counties with a replica of the Liberty Bell.

Women opposed to the suffrage amendment also have conducted a campaign and their leaders tonight predicted the defeat of the measure by 250,000. Leaders of the suffragists, who hope for victory, refuse to make any prediction as to the vote.

The republican leaders expressed confidence that their ticket, headed by Thomas B. Smith, will be successful with from 100,000 to 125,000 majority, while independent leaders declare Porter will win by 25,000.

Municipal Ownership at Detroit. By The Associated Press.

Detroit, Nov. 1.—Detroit voters will decide tomorrow whether the city shall immediately take over the ownership and operation of its street railway system. The citizens having voted in favor of municipal ownership, are now to vote on a purchase of the railway, which controls all city lines, and by the city street railway commission.

The plan provides that the purchase price shall be determined by the six circuit judges of this county after the election, and that the principal amount shall be paid to the company out of the earnings of the lines during a certain number of years. There has been much concerted opposition to the proposal on the ground that it is a "blank check" proposition, while the element favoring it has argued that it is not only a good business arrangement, but provides a way to end a municipal ownership controversy which has raged in Detroit for years.

Five Tickets in Kentucky. By The Associated Press.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 1.—One of the most energetically waged gubernatorial campaigns in Kentucky in recent years ended today with both democratic and republican leaders claiming victory in the election tomorrow. Among five candidates for governor, the principal struggle has been between former Congressman A. O. Stanley, democrat, of Henderson, and Edwin P. Morrow, republican, of Somerset. They have pressed special trains into service and sought the state with widely known speakers, including Senators James Kern, Lewis and Backham for Stanley, and former Vice President Charles W. Fairbanks for Morrow. Fred J. Drexler, progressive, Louisville; E. L. Pickett, prohibitionist, of Wilmore; and Charles Dobbs, socialist, Louisville, have contented themselves with less extensive campaigns.

In the absence of sharp differences in platform declarations, candidates for governor of the two principal parties largely have made the issues. Mr. Stanley has urged that a democratic victory in effect would be a vote of confidence in President Wilson, who has endorsed the ticket. Mr. Morrow has championed economy in state funds.

All state officers, one-half of the state senate and all members of the lower house of the general assembly will be chosen.

CAPTURE OF KRAGUEVATZ BY GERMANS IS REPORTED

Serbia's Situation Growing More Critical, With Teutons in Possession of Arsenal Town and Bulgarians Pushing Their Way Through the Mountains to Nish, the War Capital.

RUSSIANS REPORTED AT VAINA.

By The Associated Press. London, Nov. 2.—(2:53 a. m.)—A dispatch to the Times from Bucharest says:

It is reported in naval quarters here that Russian troops were landed at Varna in Bulgaria on the Black Sea Friday.

By The Associated Press.

London, Nov. 1.—The Germans have occupied Kraguevatz, the arsenal town of Serbia, while their Bulgarian allies are pushing their way through the mountains to Nish, Serbia's war capital.

From all sides the Germans, Austrians and Bulgarians are slowly closing in on the Serbian army, the position of which grows graver daily. They are fighting fiercely, however, to save their country and have inflicted such losses on Field Marshal von Mackensen's force that he has been compelled to send for reinforcements and leave the more serious work of invading the eastern and southern part of the country to the Bulgarians, who have more experience in mountain warfare such as the Serbians are waging.

From the junction of the Danube and Timok rivers in the northeast to the south the Bulgarians are pushing forward, driving the Serbians out of the towns into the mountains, but from Uskup southward they have been checked, as the Serbians in that section have been reinforced by the French and British with modern guns and with gunners who gained valuable experience in France and Gallipoli.

Beyond the forces landed at Saloniki, which German estimates place at seventy thousand men, there is no news of further assistance being sent by the allies to Serbia. Russian transports have been reported off Varna but the report lacks confirmation. There is, however, evidence in dispatches from Bucharest that the Paris asserts that the barrier fire of the French guns broke up the attempt. The Germans have again started an attack with the object of capturing Riga, and, attacking from two sides, are claimed to have gained additional ground. The Russians have taken the offensive in the region of Dvinsk, but Berlin says their efforts broke down with heavy casualties.

According to Berlin, more than 40,000 prisoners and 100 guns of various calibers were taken at the Russian and Serbian fronts in October.

While no reports have come through concerning the operations against the Dardanelles, an unofficial dispatch from Rome asserts that the British have made great preparations to meet a new offensive which the Austrians and Germans are preparing against the Suez canal.

Further progress for the Italians on the upper Cadore front, as recorded by Rome, which in addition says that Austrian attacks in the Falzarego zone and on the Podgora height were repulsed.

King George, who was injured last week by a fall from his horse while at the front, has returned to London. Although fatigued by the journey, his condition is said to be satisfactory.

By The Associated Press.

Another step toward the capture of Nish by the combined forces of the British and French is reported by the Bulgarians in the capture of Bala Palanka, which lies almost midway between Pirot and Nish.

In the south near the Greek-Serb border where the French and British troops are aiding the Serbs there have been intermittent cannonading and outpost engagements of various sorts, but no fighting of great importance has occurred. On the heights around Krivolak, a Bulgarian attack was repulsed by the French.

The Germans in the Balkan campaign reached France, heavily laden with the French positions along the front between Hill 133 and Tahure, seemingly preparatory to another attack, but

Staten commissioner of navigation, was suspicious of me, apparently, when I applied last May for American registry because my name is German. The application was turned down by Mr. Chamberlain because, he said, he feared there was a German interest in this company.

"I then went to Secretary of Commerce Redfield, who upheld Mr. Chamberlain. Finally Secretary Lansing notified the department of commerce after a long investigation that there was no reason why registry could not be obtained and accordingly the Hocking was admitted to American registry on August 10.

"I know of no reason whatever why the Hocking should have been seized. All officers of the company and all shareholders, of whom there are fifteen, are native Americans.

Mr. Wagner said he had heard that Jensen, from whom he bought the ship, had been imprisoned in Denmark for violating Danish neutrality in connection with the sale or operation of steamships. Jensen had told him, Mr. Wagner said, that he had made about a million dollars on a single cargo of wool brought from Argentina to Denmark in one of his ships. How he made this money, Mr. Wagner did not know.

The American Trans-Atlantic Steamship company is capitalized at $2,500,000, all of which is said to be paid in. It owns ten steamships, all recently purchased.

Washington, Nov. 1.—The Hocking was seized by a prize crew aboard into Halifax, was lodged today with Secretary of State Lansing by Richard G. "The Hocking was bought last June by the company of which I am president," Mr. Wagner said, "from Albert Jensen of Copenhagen. Mr. Jensen had bought the vessel in March, 1915, from W. Indigestion May Be Due to Constipation

NEGLECT OF IMPORTANT FUNCTION MAY SERIOUSLY IMPAIR THE HEALTH.

There are many people who believe they suffer from indigestion when their discomfort really is due to a constipated condition. Bloat, with its attendant mental depression, sick-headache, the belching of sour stomach gases, etc., are frequently due to inaction of the bowels. Relieve the congestion and the trouble usually disappears. The use of cathartics and purgatives should be avoided, however; these shock the system unnecessarily and, at best, their effect is but temporary. A mild laxative is far preferable.

The compound of simple laxative herbs known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and sold in drug stores for fifty cents a bottle, is highly recommended. Mr. Benj. Bassin, 360 Madison St., Gary, Ind., thinks Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has done him a great deal of good. He had a severe case of indigestion and constipation before trying Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which he is glad to recommend to all who suffer with stomach and bowel trouble.

A bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin should be in every home for use when occasion arises. A trial bottle, free of charge, can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 454 Washington St., Monticello, Ill.

would not be too great a sum to raise to properly advertise your great state."

The Speech in Detail.

President Albert said, in part: "This invasion of Texas, as some of you have termed it, is about to come to an end. In this central city of the state on almost the last evening I shall be with you; at the close of a tour which has been distinctly memorable and a journey rich with pleasure and understanding, I count it a very great fortune to have the task of undertaking here an expression of my gratitude to you all. First, it has been a tour not without its developing power in my own Rotary mind. What are we to call modern Rotary? It is the only kind of Rotary I have ever known. This tour of the two states of the twelfth district has enlarged me richly. I am a bigger and I hope a better man."

"Rotary is a western product. Never forget that. (Loud applause.) All the cities of large sizes in which Rotary has made its way with difficulty are east of the Alleghenies. Rotary in itself a realization of the western spirit, essentially self-reliant, essentially upbuilding, essentially self-confident, essentially a little outspoken, essentially chivalrous, essentially courteous. Now this phase of Rotary has been made plainer to me on this tour of the thirteen cities in Texas and the one of Louisiana than it has been before. I have been glad to make new friendships, which the tour has made possible, and to broaden my conception of Rotary, which has come through those friendships. Sometimes I have said that universities were aggregates of selected youth, and that the fraternities in these universities were selections from the selected, and then in these fraternities there were unworthy members. So in Rotary, we must not be surprised if there now and then shall come a Rotarian who is not altogether competent for the fullness of Rotary, the ideals of Rotary, and we do come upon a man who thinks that God is turning the world from east to west, who thinks from some pure stubbornness in his own nature would lift himself out of a day of glory into a day of darkness, from a day in which men think largely into a day when men think in the little sense. Not long ago one of them undertook a demonstration of his own fallacy to keep in touch with the Rotary spirit and to set back the wheel of Rotary in its circle of 20,000 of other wheels. I shall never forget the feeling that came to me as I read the first letter from a club, not 10,000 miles from me, and a second letter telling me the issue had been threshed out and that the winning was in the grumpy and that Rotary was richer and stronger for it. And tonight I do not hesitate to say that if ever again the ugly and venomous head of littleness shall lift itself into the power of international Rotary I shall turn with every confidence in support of Rotary to the clubs of Texas and Louisiana."

Trips Has Broadened Him. "Another gain of this tour has been in the sense of education. Already, as most of you know, I have been studying cities a great many years. Perhaps I might have told you of my own population, its death rate, etc., and perhaps I might have told you of the misgovernment of your cities on the part of the people rather than on the part of your officials, but I did not know Texas. I had no conception of Texas as she is. Had any one told me that one of the most original and comprehensive plans for city development ever given serious consideration in the Southwest had been adopted in Shreveport, in Northwester Louisiana, and I should have been struck dumb, figuratively. Had any one ever said to me, 'You will be driven to see a new high school project in Fort Worth comparable with the richest and latest educational projects under municipal management in the whole world,' I should have doubted his word. Had any one told me of Dallas and the spirit which has made her what she is I should have wondered if he knew of Cleveland, Detroit, Minneapolis, Kansas City and Los Angeles. I have found in Dallas a spirit so energetic and an outlook so keen and fixed and a courage so ready as to devote to genuine economic advancement. Had any one told me that in Houston I should come upon a system of general education ranking high in the institutions of learning throughout the world, a new university over a new city, in sciences, literature and the arts, a new crystallization of the richest architecture in all the range of Italian renaissance, I should have wondered if he were a dreamer to look into any one take note to Austin and read there the vision that Austin should become the Minneapolis of Texas, with a slender, crystal lake at the beautiful hills front door, and that the component elements should be municipal progress. I should have wondered if he were not, indeed, the wildest dreamer of them all. If any one had told me that two days ago in San Antonio, when a representative business men and the leading women of the city should sit patiently, not indifferently, not quiescently, through a statement not of the city, but rather of the growth of the resources of the city, and that the city might be made better and cleaner and purer, I would not have believed it."

Steel Trade Big Factor. Unprecedented conditions in the steel trade continue to be a big factor in influencing business in the Cleveland district. There was a decrease in idle railroad cars of 100,000 in September. Crop conditions in the southern part of the district are said to be excellent and the feeling optimistic.

After months of slow and halting development, Richmond says it is now possible to report the district is experiencing much improvement. Cotton has been the principal factor. Present indications are said to justify a belief that the situation will be comfortable and promising for three or four months, at least.

Events of the month, Atlanta reports, have not only sustained but increased confidence of the general business public throughout the district. Commercial travelers report merchants' sales double those of last year in the same period.

Chicago says that the large centers in Michigan, Wisconsin, Illinois and Iowa report affairs seemingly are gradually gaining in strength from day to day. The district is operating below normal, but there is more evidence of generally restored confidence and more activity in most lines.

Texas Feeling Optimistic. Conditions throughout the Dallas district are said to continue favorable. A general improvement is noted in all lines and the general feeling is optimistic.

Continued improvement is reported from St. Louis. The jobbing trade has made substantial gains and a marked feeling of confidence is felt among merchants. Further activity is indicated as a result.

Retail business in the Minneapolis district is said to be "fair to good" with an excellent outlook.

Farmers in the Kansas City district are said to be still inclined to hold their grain, wheat, corn and oats, apparently believing that higher prices will prevail later. Hope is entertained for a bumper corn crop. Trade generally is said to be active with fair collections.

San Francisco says there is an absence of pessimism and that there is a certainty of large crops. Depression in lumber continues.

To Remodel Baptist Church.

By The Associated Press. Ballinger, Nov. 1.—The First Baptist church of this place has made public some plans to remodel its church building. New Sunday school rooms are to be added and the main auditorium is to be enlarged. Rev. Jester is the pastor of the church.

Strong Points in Waco.

"And then I find myself in your own city. It would avail me nothing to tell you that this is the richest city in Texas, that your educational institutions are the best in the state. The thing that has impressed me most in Waco is the fact that it possesses an atmosphere conducive to clear thinking and earnest constructive work for a great growth. You have a territory surrounding you as fertile as any in the world and an empire as extensive and as susceptible of cultivation as Germany. And the way to make this city one of the greatest in the great southwest is to unite in the greatest constructive lines. I don't tell you what a man whose life is given mainly to the interpretation of economics sees for Texas. Cities are rarely richer than the territory which sustains them. Cities spring up where they are called into existence by the pressure of economic advantage. Cities depend for their existence upon the elements contributing clothing to keep the body warm, and shelter to ward off the weather, and there are no other material needs of life, save only the transportation necessary to ship these supplies. Empires grow according to the resources thereof. The growth depends upon the kinds of fuel and building material, the ores and fuel beneath the ground, that the territory and industries thereof may thrive. You are kind enough in the quiet of your own homes to test the empire of Texas by that gauge? Where in all the world have soil and climatic conditions the better combined for producing all that is essential for food and clothing? Where in all the world would Providence seemingly with care and diligence have planned for the industrial upbuilding of a great commonwealth?

Great Industrial Opportunity.

"For things are needed for industrial development—raw material, cheap fuel (power) labor and a market for all things and only four, of all the world's materials in the world susceptible for every link in that chain—manufactured goods the most valuable is cotton. (Loud applause.) What a strange reflection it is upon the absorption of you men of Texas in other concerns! What a strange reflection it is that you should be growing cotton which foreign bottoms should be transporting to Europe and alien labor should be making into thread and foreign bottoms should be transporting back to America, and northern railroads carrying to manufacturers that immigrant girls should make cloth that northern railroads should return it to Texas and that you might pay for every link in that chain—a profit upon its contribution."

"But if you will not keep to yourself the several elements of profits represented in the stages of that economic production then surely you can give attention to other economic resources of your state. That which requires the greatest amount of human attention is wood work, following that is steel, after steel comes clothing, and if you will not make cotton clothing, in heaven's name look westward towards those vast plains and those hills that you may think unproductive and count the sheep and the goats grazing upon the outlying hills and in the valleys and tell us how much of the raw material can be obtained and used for the payment of thousands of people of Texas. You have a rich soil, you have a marvelous rainfall, and except for some mountainous areas that are too high to climb you have everything that has made California famous—plus water. (Loud applause.) And yet you, whose loyalty to no one can ever question, to me I, a student and a guest, am driven to say that your own state is less known by its own people than the competing state of California."

The Opportunity of Texas.

"I started a moment ago to indicate to you what a humble student of the life of Texas, and one of his dreams would be that your cheap fuel or power shall be employed at home, that it shall be directed to the development of your own natural raw materials, that you shall give employment to labor as cheap and as trustworthy as in the world, and that you shall begin to inform the world of the richness of Texas and Louisiana first."

I see upspringing here three cities of half million inhabitants, in a comparative short time. Five additional cities of 200,000 inhabitants, and fifty cities of 25,000 inhabitants within so short a time that I do not dare tell you. Do you wonder at my confidence? Is there anything in Ohio within its limits that makes it superior to Texas, and Ohio has ninety-eight cities fairly comparable with the first fifteen cities of Texas, and I see a spirit that is distinctive of our time, a spirit making itself manifest in utility, and making itself manifest in utility."

I have spoken to you long enough. I believe in demanding Rotary service from Rotarians, and I have spoken as I have because behind it all I see a larger, finer, nobler, sweeter thing even than community success. You have had your share of public feelings here and there, but you have not been generous to each other."

A Wholesome Atmosphere.

"And yet in the face of that I have come here and found a more wholesome, more and a life simpler, more wholesome, more beautiful and more natural than in any communities I have visited. And I believe if you men of Texas will unite in this great enterprise, beginning, however modestly it may seem best, you will begin to see the spirit of Texas, the vision that realizing that you will have less loss of life in Texas, you will have better departments of public health, there will be fewer babies dying, because you men as Rotarians will see that they get clean milk. (Applause.) There will be fewer accidents of property value in Texas cities, because you men and women of Texas will see that the dust is laid in Texas. I believe that the women of Texas will provide abundant means for the secondary and collegiate education of your own children."

"There will be the growth of industrial plants to furnish employment to thousands within your state. There is no portion of your population that can be neglected. My hope is that within ten years my least ambition for your great state may grow into a near approach to the realization of her full and glorious potentialities. I am for you and I pray the largest measure of service that Rotary ideals will make possible to you all. I thank you."

Woodson Was Toastmaster.

W. W. Woodson officiated as toastmaster last night and first of the local Rotary club, who delivered the address of welcome. Mr. Nettles was followed in turn by W. A. Richardson, Jr., governor of the Texas district, who said there was something in Rotary for every member to do. He declared the owe of a Texas Rotarian was to give every man a chance to live better and to lift him from any and all spiritual up-lift than from any and all material up-lift since he has left his mother's knee. He believed the initial district conference held here would be an estimable value to the state as a whole, as a result of the enlarged and improved activities of the various clubs made, also, by John W. Yauger of Shreveport and Rev. J. W. Loving of Cleburne, their clubs not having been represented at the list of speakers at the noon-day luncheon.

Mr. Loving in company with J. R. Ransome, Jr., J. H. Hess and J. A. Williams, arrived at the city last night and stayed at the conclusion of the conference but in plenty of time for the banquet.

He told how his club was cooperating with other organizations in the general upbuilding of his city. Variety to the program was furnished in two beautiful vocal solos by Miss Sallie Keith, "O Brother Sang the Thrush" by Liza Lehman and "Would You?" by Birch—with piano accompaniment by Prof. M. E. Smith and two violin solos by Prof. Anton Navratil of Baylor university, with piano accompaniment by Prof. Rudolf Hoffman, Baylor.

Elvino, also of Baylor, played and sang his own composition, "My Little Waco Maid," at the special request of the Elvino club. He then played a number of the popular airs of the day as the audience joined in singing them. Among the songs the crowd sang were "The Good Old Summer Time," "Tipperary," "The Old Gray Bonnet," "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," and "Far Away." The "Style Song" was sung for all of the visiting national and district officers and for Messrs. Albert, Cornell and Richardson, and the local women of the entertainment committee, occupied seats in the dining room, following their dinner at the Elvino club.

One of the thrilling addresses of the evening and one embodying the form of a idealism of Rotary was given by the late Dr. J. L. Kesler of Baylor, entitled "A Tale of Two Cities." It contained a plea for the city in which the state should help him carry forward his educational program and go to Cincinnati next July prepared to make that convention one of efficiency just as the one at Duluth had been one of organization, that at Buffalo one of acquaintance, that at San Francisco one of interpretation. He then presented President Albert, who delivered the principal address of the evening.

Upon the conclusion of the program Mr. Woodson announced that R. S. Lazenby of the Artesian Manufacturing and Bottling company, had been awarded the contract, over many competitors, for furnishing ginger ale to the White Star Line steamships. This announcement was made on the basis of Mr. Lazenby being a member of the local Rotary club. The menu served last night was as follows:

Grape Fruit
Beaumont Stalks Shreveport Olives
Corpus Christi Almonds
Waco Spring Chicken
Asparagus Tips
Houston Peas Palestine Croquettes
San Antonio Punch Fort Worth Salad
Minneapolis Ice Cream
Port Arthur Cake
Dallas Cheese Cleburne Crackers

NEWSPAPER ITEM GOT LAWYER'S EYE

JUDGE BURNETT READ AN INTERVIEW AND THEREBY HANGS A VITALITAS STORY.

The way in which Judge W. W. Burnett, one of the old-time lawyers at Austin, Texas, became interested in Vitalitas, now being recognized as the south's most wonderful medicinal product, is told by him as follows:

"One day I noticed the statement of a friend of mine in the paper whom I had known always and I knew if Vitalitas would do him any good that it would surely help me. I got a bottle and before I had used it was considerably improved. I have taken three all told. My indigestion, which was in the form of bloating, entirely left me and my catarrh is considerably better. I was also badly run down. I think Vitalitas is the best tonic for these troubles on the market today. I take pleasure in recommending it to any one who needs a good tonic."

Vitalitas is beyond question, as Judge Burnett states, the best tonic on the market today. It is wholly and purely a natural product taken out of the earth and is free of alcohol or any hurtful ingredients. For chronic disorders generally of stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels and blood it will be found wonderfully effective. For sale by Powers-Kelly Drug Co. and all other druggists.

Mrs. Will Mistrot, chairman of the Woman's Exchange, announces that all articles for the department will be received on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, as none will be admitted later.

CHILDREN'S PAGEANT CREATES ASTONISHMENT

Mrs. J. M. Hale as author of the Children's Pageant marshalled her episode chairmen and these in turn selected children. Plans have gone forward, and really, none but those with the charmed circle, so to speak, realize what a gigantic thing it is to realize that the first day of the Cotton Palace. It is safe to say one thousand men, women and children are more or less directly working with this pageant. The first meeting of all chairmen has been held. Holt Massey, whose counsel and assistance will prevail, was free to say he had not conceived what the Children's Pageant meant. Later, a Spirit of Prophecy was pronounced, he was appalled at the magnitude of what this would be. The chairmen are already with outline of their episodes, the succession of which will present Waco from the days when these woods were the domain of gnomes and nymphs, to the day when the public nurse became the last of the city's strides towards a real cosmopolitan center. Costumed in dance, pantomime, gesture and tableau, these episodes will be presented before a grand stand of five thousand people. Several cities in Texas have advertised a Children's Pageant, notably Galveston, Temple and Houston, but none has been so successful as the real one, which is of more immediate interest is the connection these visitors have with the famous Black Watch, a time-honored regiment from Scotland. Since their arrival here, they have been in the thick of the terrible conflict. He writes in such a personal vein and gives a picture of such realism that we have obtained permission to pass it on, as an insight for readers in general, into a soldier's experience behind the guns. This letter reads:

"I cannot write, for I simply have no time to spare. You of course have read in home papers what we did. We must have done our work well, for we have been paraded before Sir Henry Rawlinson, when we were thanked for the brilliant manner in which we drove the Germans back. It was a good fight; at some points we fairly swept everything in front of us. But we paid a heavy price. I question whether another brigade in all the British army could have done as well. We began at 6 o'clock in the morning to proceed up the trenches under the heaviest bombardment in the history of any war. The air was simply an avalanche of shells and the noise beyond human conception.

"When we jumped out of the trenches the fire was tremendous. But we advanced, and mopped up the earth with the blood of Germans. We took a lot of prisoners and as we entered the town of Loos, we had a heavy rain of shells. It is marvelous that any of us came out alive. Soon, though, we had the Germans under retreat to the hills, and we established ourselves in the town.

"I, myself, had numerous experiences here. One time I was standing behind a large house talking to the colonel. We noticed the enemy began to shell this house vigorously. Thinking we might be safer in the cellar, we scrambled down, and to our surprise found we were in a dugout, where a German officer was seated signalling to his guns up on the hill. Of course we turned him into the prisoners' camp and took his two telephones to do our own signalling. Within one of the rooms we found and killed three Germans; thirty more were in the cellar. We sent for the bombers who 'bombed' them out and took them prisoners. The one who fell to me was so young, I had not the heart to shoot him; he was so frightened he simply fell into my arms. I tied his hands behind his back and made him prisoner. We captured guns, and our men have German helmets galore. One or two women and children were in this dreadful bombardment. I lost quite a number of my best friends. We paid many scores, for the German dead were lying thick. Our brigadier was awfully proud of our men. We are now a long way back from the line, taking a much needed rest. My souvenir from this terrible experience is the shoulder strap of the young fellow I captured."

CARDS ARE ISSUED FOR APPROACHING WEDDING

The following card has gone forth to friends and relatives of the prospective bride and groom:

Mr. and Mrs. James Aklin invite you to be present at the marriage of their daughter Eunice Marie to

Mr. Creel Orvis Esselman on the morning of Thursday, November 4, at eleven-thirty o'clock, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Church, Waco, Texas.

CHILDREN TOO LAX IN THEIR ENGAGEMENTS

Parents, if you have not lost control of your children, do impress upon them the importance of keeping their engagements. They are too young to realize the significance of responding promptly in many instances and a timely reminder would be effective. At the last, supposedly the final, rehearsal of the Children's Pageant, the response was anything but satisfactory. Many of the children went to the ball game regardless of the chairman's call.

If you consent for your children to take part in making this feature one of the beautiful of the Cotton Palace, then do your duty—the component parts make the whole. Awaken their civic pride, the first step to make useful men and women. See that there is a regular short of duty, then is the last of the ball games. The ladies of the Cotton Palace are indefatigable in their efforts to make it a success, and if there is an omission or a falling short of duty, then is the last of the ball games. The ladies of the Cotton Palace are indefatigable in their efforts to make it a success, and if there is an omission or a falling short of duty, then is the last of the ball games.

valuable and tried remedies are well worth attention of the society housekeeper. Screens to doors and windows should be daily wiped off with a kerosene cloth to make them clear, and to prevent the incursion of flies, mosquitoes, ants, and other insects. A teaspoonful of each cleaning is sufficient in a gallon of water, or on a dry cloth. A few drops on your O-Cedar mop are effective.

A mixture of plaster of paris with some quantity of sugar drives away the ants. These hints save labor and worry—keep the wrinkles in abeyance.

ORPHEUM'S OFFERING PLEASES

Critical Audience Entirely Satisfied With Interpretation of "The Shepherd of the Hills."

"When God looked upon the work of His hands and said 'It is good,' He must have had His eye upon the Ozark hills." This bit of homely philosophy from Preachin' Bill gives the setting of "The Shepherd of the Hills" and suggests the atmosphere of this strongly virile play of God's untamed country and men with heart and soul. As this week's offering of the Besse Dainty company at the Orpheum.

A well-filled house, paid a well-deserved tribute to the cast and the class of plays that is being offered by the reader of a best seller, like Harold Bell Wright's "Shepherd of the Hills" is unconsciously an exacting critic when his favorite is dramatized, and it speaks well for the merit of a company that offers the book in play form without offending the reader-critic's illusions. Perhaps three-fourths of the audience last night had lived in their imagination through this appealing story, and practically the same three-fourths left the Orpheum last night, con-

How To Make the Quickest, Simplest Cough Remedy

Much Better than the Ready-Made Kind and You Save $2. Fully Guaranteed

This home-made cough syrup is now used in more homes than any other cough remedy. Its promptness, ease and certainty in conquering distressing coughs, chest and throat colds, is really remarkable. You can actually feel it take hold. A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough—relieves even whooping cough quickly. Splendid, too, for bronchitis, spasmodic croup, bronchial asthma and winter coughs.

Get from any druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex (30 cents worth), pour it in a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. This gives you—at a cost of only 45 cents—a full pint of better cough syrup than you could buy for $2.50. Takes but a few minutes to prepare. Full directions with Pinex. Tastes good and never spoils.

You will be pleasantly surprised how quickly it loosens dry, hoarse or tight coughs, and heals the inflamed membranes in a painful cough. It also stops the formation of phlegm in the throat and bronchial tubes, thus ending the persistent, annoying cough.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, rich in gualacol, which is so healing to the membranes.

To avoid disappointment, be sure and ask your druggist for "2½ ounces Pinex," and don't accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Notice to Subscribers—
Delivery routes in the city of Waco are in the hands of independent carriers, who buy their papers at wholesale prices. Subscriptions are due them, not the Waco Morning News. They are under heavy bond, not only to give the best delivery service, but to pay for their papers each month. Their remuneration is the difference between the wholesale price and the retail price which they receive from subscribers. This margin of profit is such that they cannot afford to extend credit, except month by month. They are not required, and they are advised against, delivering the paper to anyone who does not pay in accordance with the above subscription terms. These carriers are all earnest, hard working men and they will appreciate any courtesy shown them.

The Morning News should be delivered throughout the city of Waco by 6:30 a. m., and subscribers failing to receive their paper at that time will confer a favor by phoning the Circulation Department, both phones 1132, and a copy will be sent by special messenger.

Any erroneous reflection upon the character, standing or reputation of any person, firm or corporation which may appear in the columns of the Morning News will be gladly corrected upon receipt of a statement to the effect of the management.

"SAFE FARMING" IN THE SOUTH.

A program of "safe farming" for the South is outlined in a circular which the United States department of agriculture has sent to bankers, business men and farmers in the cotton states. The history of agriculture in the South, it has been said, has been one of lean years and fat years. Short crops and high prices have almost invariably been followed by big crops and low prices and, in consequence, the farmer has experienced much distress. The increased attention which has recently been given to supporting the people upon the land has already resulted in much good, but there is some danger, it is pointed out, that, with the price of cotton rising, there will be a tendency for farmers to return to the old system of gambling on cotton. If the people of the South produced their own living, the circular points out, it would steady the whole system and keep the boat from rocking. The safety measures recommended are as follows:

1. Produce a home garden for every family on the farm, the year round, paying special attention to a plot of Irish or sweet potatoes sufficient to supply the family with food of this character. Where feasible, have a patch of sorghum or other cane to produce syrup for the family.
2. Produce the corn necessary to support all of the people on the farm and the livestock, with absolute safety.
3. Produce the necessary oats and other small grain to supplement the corn as food. Pay attention to winter grazing.
4. Produce hay and forage from some forage crop, sufficient to supply all of the livestock on the farm. Use legumes such as clover, cowpeas, velvet beans, soy beans and alfalfa for the production of hay and to enrich the soil with nitrogen and humus.
5. Produce the meat necessary to supply the people, through increased attention to poultry and hogs, especially. Plan to increase gradually the number of cattle and other livestock so as to have a sufficient number to consume the waste products of the farm and make the waste lands productive.
6. After all of these things have been amply provided for, produce cotton for the market.

Heroism is not a lost art in Waco. Two of the eight Texans honored by the Carnegie Hero Fund commission were residents of this city.

One of our financial exchanges brings the information that the stockholders are preparing to tie some rocks to the coat-tails of those directors who put the rocks in the Rock Island.

The Cotton Belt railroad, along with all the others entering Waco, is a friend to this city and the Cotton Palace. From the Hamilton Record we clip the following: "The Cotton Belt announces that it will favor Hamilton county people with special trains and excursion rates to the Cotton Palace on Hamilton County and German Days. Hurrah for the Cotton Belt!"

Abbott will be here in full force on Hill County Day at the Cotton Palace, if Editor Wallace of the Abbott News has his way. In his latest issue he says: "Our Hillsboro neighbors have sent us an invitation to help swell Hill County Day at the Cotton Palace, Nov. 11. Local pride should so govern in such matters as will make us do whatever is necessary to make it a day of credit to Hill county and also Abbott. Let's close up for a day, pin on a ribbon and make it a success."

THE PENALTY OF THE PIONEER.

Addressing a mass meeting in behalf of prohibition at Cleveland, Ohio, Sunday, William Jennings Bryan urged his audience not to pity him because of his unsuccessful political career.

"Pity me? Don't do it," he said. "If I had lived two centuries ago and advocated what I do now, I would have been hung. No one has accomplished any great reform without being abused and ostracized at first, but when a man believes he is right he must speak out."

Mr. Bryan has been regarded always as a radical, but we remember that some of the principles he advocated when he first came into prominence less than twenty years ago have now come to be regarded as perfectly orthodox, and more and more the country is coming to indorse the advanced governmental policies for which he has stood.

But it is the principle exemplified in the case of Mr. Bryan rather than his personal qualifications that we wish to stress. The pioneer in any line of human endeavor finds not only that response to his leadership is slow, but that he must overcome direct opposition as well as inertia and that opposition frequently assumes the form of prejudice and attempted ridicule.

Nor is this opposition to new ideas and policies confined to political fields alone. Columbus, the discoverer of America; George Stephenson, the inventor of the locomotive; Edison, the electrical wizard, and Wright Brothers, the aviators, were deemed dreamers and men of impractical ideas, persons to be endured but never cultivated or esteemed, until after the success of their efforts had been demonstrated, and sometimes this did not come until after the inventors or discoverers had passed off the earthly stage. And in the religious field, we find the Pharisees and Scribes demanding and finally securing the crucifixion of Christ because He protested against their shams and hypocrisies and set forth the emptiness of their forms of worship.

It is in the field of politics, however, that we see the most pronounced opposition to new ideas, partly because it is in the field of politics that the largest popular interest is centered, and also because there are always men on the alert in that field, to oppose any further progress, because they and the interests which they serve prosper most where there is least advancement toward efficiency and public service. The direct election of senators encountered long and stubborn opposition before it was finally adopted; regulation of railroads and corporations came very slowly; the initiative and referendum were opposed as forces that would most certainly destroy our democratic institutions; and as for prohibition, the advocates of that measure have been denounced as long-haired, dreamy-eyed vagabonds and theorists who ought to be imprisoned, for the fact that they were feeble-minded and hardly responsible.

These are only a few of the activities looking for the advancement of the race in which every step has been opposed by individuals and interests that were hard to defeat. But the world has grown wiser as it has grown older and is now accepting many things which it formerly despised. Men and women have larger freedom and larger opportunity as a result of the coming of these reforms; they have a better chance to live normally and healthily; a better chance to rear a family under circumstances that are wholesome; and we are all growing better together.

But somebody must pave the way for all of our real advances and pay the penalty which incurring the dislike of those opposing interests which are firmly entrenched necessarily entails. Prohibition may not win in Ohio today; we hardly look for it, though nothing would delight us more. But we do expect the majority against it will be greatly reduced from the unfavorable vote in opposition to it last year, and that will be something to be grateful for. And if the vote for the retention of the saloons is smaller this year than last, it will be only a matter of a very few years until that majority will be wiped out, and Ohio will join that rapidly enlarging column of dry states.

Should any man be pitied because his efforts to advance the cause of humanity should not succeed the first time? No, we should rather covet the privilege he has enjoyed of having contributed something material to the uplift of the race at a time when others were not willing to follow and help.

Champ Clark says he thinks a conservative course on the question of military preparedness will finally be pursued in this country. We hope Champ is right, and while we might credit him with being a man of fine judgment, we recall that a man is naturally more conservative after having been steam-rollered like the distinguished Missourian was at Baltimore.

After the Cotton Palace the Baylor homecoming. There is always something in Waco that is worth coming a long way to see or attend.

VERY FEW BIRTHS REPORTED AT MARLIN

VISITING MINISTERS HELP ORDAIN EIGHT DEACONS AT FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH.

Near Midnight Marriage Gives Marlin Bride to Eugene Driver of Bryan.

Special to the Morning News.
Marlin, Tex., Nov. 1.—A heavy fall in the registration of births was shown by the number of those filed in County Clerk Gooden's office for the month of August, as only sixteen were on record, two of the births being twins. There were no reports reported for Marlin and no negro birth report cards filed.

The births were equally divided between male and female, being eight boys and eight girls in the lot. The percentage is shown to be seven German and nine American.

Near Midnight Marriage.
Special to the Morning News.
Marlin, Nov. 1.—A near midnight marriage ceremony was held last night when at the residence of the bride's parents, Rev. H. M. Whaling pronounced the words making Eugene Driver of Bryan and Miss Margaret Walker of this city, man and wife. Directly after the wedding which was attended by a number of friends, Mr. and Mrs. Driver left for Bryan, where they will make their home.

Eight Deacons Ordained.
Special to the Morning News.
Marlin, Nov. 1.—Eight deacons were ordained at the special services at the First Baptist church Sunday night. Instead of five as first expected. Of the five first elected, one declined to serve at the service last night just previous to the ordination ceremony. Those ordained deacons were: M. L. Caldwell, E. B. Holloway, H. E. Wrenn, H. O. Jennings, J. L. Woodland, E. S. Singer, E. A. Rogers and W. E. Kyser.

I. & G. N. Is Advertising the Cotton Palace

D. J. Price, the general passenger agent of the International and Great Northern railroad, is right on the job. Mr. Price is doing the work of seventeen ordinary men in popularizing the Cotton Palace in every town located on the I. & G. N. He is rapidly proving himself to be a most loyal friend of both Waco and the Cotton Palace.

The publicity department of the Cotton Palace is in receipt of sample circulars that Mr. Price has placed in the hands of the public in all I. & G. N. towns. Separate circulars printed in red have been furnished to each place. The circulars contain full and complete information concerning the principal features of the exposition, and gives the rate of fare to Waco. It is a distinct pleasure to have the railroad officials working in harmony with the Cotton Palace management, and doing everything possible to make the exposition a state-wide institution and a brilliant success.

Record breaking crowds are expected to be seen at the Cotton Palace from the territory traversed by the I. & G. N. road.

Racing Programs to be Distributed Free at Exposition

An international precedent will be smashed at the Cotton Palace. It has always been the custom from Boston to Frisco to sell programs at all horse racing events. The crowds in the grand stands have been obliged to put up with the discomfort and annoyance of having loud-yelling and loud-smelling boys climb over them in their wild scramble to sell programs. Of course, everybody must have a program in order to intelligently witness the races. They are not only annoying, but they are compelled to separate themselves from a piece of coin that they would prefer to retain in their jeans.

Both kinds of annoyance will be avoided at the Cotton Palace. The directors of the exposition have already made arrangements to furnish every person in the grand stand with a program absolutely free of charge.

The programs for the concerts and various events in the coliseum have always been furnished free in the past. This commendable custom will of course be continued this year.

Accident Victims Are Recovering

Dr. B. J. French, who was injured Sunday afternoon by being struck by a street car while riding with his wife near Twenty-second and Ethel streets, was still in a very painful condition last night. Dr. French was carried into the home of Mr. Harris, 1012 North Twenty-second street, at the time of the accident because of the seriousness of his injuries, remained there until he had recovered sufficiently for him to be removed last night. French, who was more fortunate, being thrown out before the buggy was demolished by the car, was setting along very nicely last night.

When the street car came in from behind the buggy, the vehicle was demolished almost and Dr. French was dragged for some forty feet. His right shoulder was dislocated and his hip injured, besides other very painful bruises and abrasions.

Experts to Lecture on Public Health at the Cotton Palace

A course of lectures on health topics, preventable diseases and home sanitation will be given at the Cotton Palace under the auspices of the Woman's Department. The course of lectures has been arranged by Dr. Linco.

The doctor will be in personal charge of the health exhibit. A special room will be provided for this exhibit in the Home Industry building. It should be visited by every person attending the exposition. The hearing of the lectures that will be given will make a better and healthier race of people. No one can afford to miss these lectures in which will be illustrated with lantern slides, also with moving pictures. This will be the first time that health lectures have ever been given in this section of the state with the aid of moving pictures.

Other lectures on various subjects will be given by other physicians of state prominence.

Dr. R. H. Dudgeon of this city will give a lecture on cancer. Dr. Henry C. E. Collins will give a talk on water and milk borne diseases. "Milk Supply of Bottle Babies" will be the subject discussed by Dr. R. H. Dudgeon. Miss Laura Edwards, the public health nurse, will lecture on home sanitation.

Dr. Linco will also give interesting talks on malaria, hook worm, child welfare and tuberculosis.

All lectures will occur at 4:45 each day. A bulletin board will be placed at the entrance of the lecture room so that the public can obtain definite information as to the lectures.

Public Servants to be at Cotton Palace in Great Numbers

Letters announcing their intention of being present at the Cotton Palace Public Servants Day have been received in great numbers from four county clerks. Indications are that there will be a large attendance of officeholders at that time. Those accepting the invitation yesterday were J. A. Sommers, county clerk of Hall County; Zena Dairymple of Uvalde, Uvalde county; Jeff T. Kemp of Cameron, Milam county, and C. B. Irwin of Glen Rose, Somervell county.

Invitations to all persons, holding similar offices in the state have been sent out by all the public officials of the city and county, and a large number of acceptances have been received.

Brother of Man Who Was Killed In Katy Yards Arrives Today

The mangled body of W. G. Gravitt, who was ground under the wheels of a freight car at Bellmead yards early Sunday morning, lies in the undertaking parlors of L. E. Smith and Sons, 121 E. Second street, where the arrival of a brother, R. C. Gravitt, of Tall City, Alabama, for disposition. Judge J. J. Padgett heard the testimony of two of the car inspectors of the yards, Lee Smith and V. L. Stevens, yesterday, but no new details of the accident were brought out.

The exact manner in which the unfortunate man met his death has not been cleared up. The supposition is that he was riding an incoming freight train and slipped accidentally under the trucks. He was not working for the yards at the time of his death, and had been working around the yards previous to his death. He is said to have been working on an M. K. & T. concrete gang on the Smithville division some days ago.

The brother, who is expected to arrive in Waco early this morning, was located through the secretary of union local at Chickasha, Oklahoma, from which the dead man carried a membership card.

The body has been held since Saturday waiting the arrival of a son, J. E. Quay, from Philadelphia, who came in the night last night over the Katy. The funeral service will be preached by Dr. C. T. Caldwell, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, of which church Mr. Quay has been a member for a number of years and of which he was a deacon at the time of his death. Temple Will be at Cotton Palace With Crowd November 10

Temple is making plans to be well represented at the Cotton Palace on Temple and Bell County Day, November 10, as is evidenced by the following from a recent issue of the Temple Telegram:

"With the naming of the general committee which will have complete charge of the excursion of about 100 Temple people to the Waco Cotton Palace, November 10, plans were yesterday set in motion for the making of the trip one that will go a long way toward putting Temple on the map. Already pennants and red feathers, the latter to bedeck the handsome Y. M. B. L. hats and incidentally to tickle the 'vanity' of the young ladies with whom the excursionists might come in contact, have been ordered and will arrive within the course of a week."

"The committee which will have charge of the trip is composed of Tom S. Wright, chairman; J. J. Hegman and Jno. T. Land. As many sub-committees as will be needed to make the trip successful will be named by these gentlemen when they meet Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock."

"The party will travel in a special train which will be made up in Temple and which will return home that night. Many of those who have already announced they will take the excursion to the Cotton Palace will be accompanied by their wives and young lady friends."

"Various committees, such as music, ticket and amusement, will be named by the general committee, composed of Messrs. Wright, Hegman and Land. In all probability a brass band will accompany the Temple party to enliven the excursion and let the Wacoans be cognizant of the fact that the Cotton Palace. Parades will be made through the downtown streets of the neighboring city and everything done up in grand style. Red feathers will be worn by every person on the train, besides badges."

Famous Clock Arrives for Cotton Palace

Workmen who will erect the famous Gebhard clock at the Cotton Palace arrived yesterday. The clock will arrive today. The clock will be installed under the personal direction of one of the Gebhards, a son of the inventor. This famous clock is one of the marvels of the mechanical world. It has 15,000 parts, and is valued at $150,000. This amount having been offered for its purchase by the Smithsonian institute. The movements of the clock vary in speed from one revolution to the second to one revolution in 29 1/2 years, and are all operated by a single pendulum. It will require five days to erect the clock, only enough time having been allowed to have it ready for the thousands who will view it during the Cotton Palace.

George W. Rice, "The King of the Warpath," also arrived in Waco to personally superintend the unloading of the famous Rice shows, which will be the Warpath feature this year. Mr. Rice will also superintend the installation of the water carnival which will be a new Warpath attraction.

Baraca-Philatheas Hold Good Meeting

The question of whether or not the organized classes should meet with the regular Sunday school for the opening exercises, discussed from the floor and led by James P. Alexander, was the feature of the regular monthly meeting of the Baraca-Philatheas City union which met at the Columbus Street Baptist church last night. Following the program and a brief discussion, the union was the guest of the members of the Columbus Street classes for a social hour with refreshments.

S. E. Stewart was elected assistant chorister for the union, and Miss Jennie Bowen was selected as fourth assistant vice president to fill vacancies.

Besides the open discussion, other numbers on the program were an organ solo by Harry Lee Spencer, a reading by Miss Jewel Johnson, and a duet by Misses Gladys Nichols and Kate Hill.

An invitation for the next meeting of the union to be held with the Morrow Street Methodist church was accepted.

More Arrests In Mart Box Car Burglaries
Being charged with having in his possession goods which he knew were a part of an interstate shipment of freight, J. M. Bell of Mart waived a preliminary trial yesterday morning before United States Commissioner A. P. McCormick and was released on a $1000 bond. Bell, who was arrested in Mart Sunday by J. A. Rogers, deputy United States marshal, is one of a number who have been arrested in connection with the Mart box car robberies.

Among the persons against whom charges have been made in connection with the box car burglaries are: C. G. Lewis, S. M. Blake, H. P. Skipton, R. J. Williams and Sid Fluker. This is the second complaint filed in the federal court against Benson, Williams and Fluker, when the second complaint was made, not having yet made bond on the first charge.

S. W. U. Man Here to Place Exhibit at Cotton Palace

Southwestern university at Georgetown is creditably ambitious to have one of the more attractive exhibits at the big Cotton Palace which begins next Saturday. A. Dee Simpson, campaign manager for the university, arrived at the Hotel Waco yesterday and will begin today upon the task of placing the exhibit in shape.

According to Mr. Simpson, the exhibit will be practically only a little better than the exhibit made by the university at the Cotton carnival in Galveston during August and at the Dallas fair, just closed. It will consist largely of photographs and books and pleasingly arranged literature tending to show the excellence of the university.

Of chief interest, perhaps, will be the pictures. These will include between 200 and 400 former students at Georgetown who later have become men of distinction in law, business, medicine and other lines. Among the galaxy will be many men and women from Waco, including Judge Tom L. McCullough, Congressman Robert L.

Henry, W. H. McCullough, Prof. Andrew Anderson, Mrs. J. A. Loughridge and others. From out in the state will be Judge William E. Hawkins of the supreme court, Judge Charles A. Wilcox of Travis county, R. E. Brooks of the Texas company at Houston, Judge Tom Taylor and scores of others.

Of more than ordinary interest will be the picture of Dean C. C. Cody, who has had the chair of mathematics at the university for thirty-seven years. It is a positive fact that of the 11,000 students attending Georgetown during its forty-three years of history, he has taught all but 300, and has signed the diplomas of every graduate with the exception of seven. It is the most remarkable record in the South and probably the most remarkable on earth. Another feature will be the picture of Charles Shell, a well known resident of Georgetown, who was a member of the first student body—forty-three years ago.

The exhibit will be in the balcony of the main building in the fine arts department. Mr. Simpson will assume personal charge during the first two days. He will be succeeded during the remainder of the Cotton Palace by Miss Fern Moorman, his private secretary.

All Soul's Day Will Be Observed By Catholics

Today is the Feast of All Souls in the Catholic world. While not a day of holy obligation, it is a day for special devotion. Three masses will be said at the Church of the Assumption. These will be at 6, 7:30 and 8 a. m. This is the first time that the priests of the United States have been permitted to say three masses except on Christmas day. This year Pope Benedict granted the concession in commemoration of the Catholics who have died on the fields of battle in Europe. Two masses were said yesterday in commemoration of All Saints' Day. The first mass was at 6 a. m. and the high mass was sung at 8:30 o'clock by the children of the junior choir.

United Charities New Cook Stove for Deserving Family

The United Charities is in immediate need of a second-hand cook stove for a deserving family. Any one who has such an article which they are willing to donate will confer a favor by telephoning William Lambdin, secretary, or sending it to 1114 Austin avenue.

Women's and children's clothing as well as men's clothing of all kinds is needed by the United Charities, according to Mr. Lambdin, who reports that the supply usually coming in to the organization for distribution has fallen off to a great extent during the last several weeks.

STOMACH MISERY QUICKLY VANISHES

Almost INSTANT RELIEF From Indigestion, Belching, Sourness, Heartburn and Bilioussness.

Your money back if you want it is the way in which all leading drug stores are selling Mi-o-na, the great stomach prescription.

This is an unusual plan, but Mi-o-na has so much merit and is so almost invariably successful in quickly relieving all forms of indigestion that druggists run little risk in selling under a guarantee of this kind.

Do not be miserable or make your friends miserable with your dyspepsia. Mi-o-na will help you. Get a box to-day and learn for yourself how easy it is to put your out-of-order stomach in perfect condition—no more heartburn, belching of gas, sourness, bilioussness, dizziness or that feeling of heaviness after eating.

A change for the better should be seen after the first few doses of Mi-o-na and its continued use should soon start you on the road to perfect digestion and enjoyment of food.

You can get Mi-o-na from practically every druggist in this vicinity, including Powers-Kelly Drug Co., under a positive guarantee of satisfactory results or money back. What fairer proposition could be made?

Claims at Ardmore

Settled by Santa Fe

Says Waco Visitor

"Almost two-thirds of those interested in the collection of damages from the Santa Fe because of the recent horrible disaster at Ardmore about eight weeks ago have settled by compromise along the plan suggested by President E. P. Ripley. Seventeen cases, I understand, will be taken into the courts."

That was the statement of James B. Bowman, civil engineer for the Standard oil company, headquarters at Ardmore, Okla. Mr. Bowman arrived yesterday and is stopping at the Hotel Waco. He will leave today for Temple and Moran.

"The Santa Fe immediately assumed entire responsibility for the accident that entailed a loss of forty-seven lives and approximately $800,000 in property," continued Mr. Bowman. "A commission was appointed as proposed by President Ripley and the Santa Fe fixed. The commission's report was accepted in a big majority of the cases—others, however, will appeal to the courts. The corporation commission will investigate after some of the cases have been tried. Ardmore firms sustaining losses are preparing to rebuild."

Mr. Bowman was particularly enthusiastic about the Brehman oil fields. He declared that the prospects of an early and profitable development were good. He considered the grade of oil as unusually high. He will spend several days at Moran.

Negro Gets Only

Bruises When Motor

Truck Strikes Him

Leroy Roberts, negro, received painful bruises about noon yesterday when he fell from his bicycle directly in front of the automobile truck of the Waco city waterworks, which passed over him. No bones were broken. The accident occurred at Eleventh and Clay streets. Roberts was picked up by Chief of Police Guy McNamara and Assistant Chief Charles P. James and taken to his home at Thirteenth and Ross.

Roberts on his bicycle was riding along in front of the motor truck, which was driven by Frank Harris, an employee of the water company. The wheels of the bicycle ran into the groove beside the street car rails at Eleventh and Ross and threw the rider directly in front of the truck.

Homesteaders' Rates to West Texas Bring Traffic to Santa Fe

"There's always something doing in Texas. The Dallas fair closes and the San Angelo fair opens. Then the Cotton Palace and the No-Tsu-Oh will begin next week."

Enthusiasm marked that statement of T. M. Gaunt, city passenger agent for the Santa Fe, who had just completed a total sale of more than thirty tickets to San Angelo, where the big west Texas exposition opened yesterday. He declared that traffic was particularly heavy to San Angelo, not alone because of the fair, but because of the homesteaders' rates the Santa Fe is offering. The tickets have been reduced to the popular rate of $5.85, round trip, with stopover rights that homesteaders might have time to investigate west Texas conditions.

MARKET REPORT

COTTON

By The Associated Press.
New York, Nov. 1.—The cotton market sustained a very severe decline today under a weight of southern selling and local liquidation which sent prices off a little more than $2 per bale. The opening was barely steady at a decline of 5 to 9 points following the cables and January soon dropped to 12 cents and March to 12.21 under increasing pressure from all quarters. The lower prices of the day, however, were not reached until the early afternoon when January sold at 11.80 and March at 12.01 representing a drop of 42 to 43 points from Saturday's close and about 140 points from the high record of a few weeks ago.

The heavy volume of southern selling was a surprise to the trade here. It was evident that the very fine weather of the past week or so had raised prices as to crop prospects and this with a lessened export inquiry doubtless had its effect in bringing about the weakness of spots at a number of points in the south which was one of the disturbing elements in the market here.

Spinners bought but not so freely as last week, although there were some good orders reported in the market on a scale down from previous prices.

Increased estimates of the India crop which resulted in speculative selling from Saturday's close had brought quite freely in the southwest on Saturday and had hedged against it in the Liverpool market today.

WHEAT

Chicago, Nov. 1.—Active demand from exporters at Winnipeg and Duluth gave the wheat market here a decided upward swing today after an early decline. Prices closed firm 1/4¢ to 1¢ net higher, with December at 1.02 1/2¢, 1.03 1/2¢, and May at 1.04 1/2¢. Corn gained 1/4¢ to 1¢ and oats 1/4¢ to 1/2¢. Provisions finished irregular, varying from 10 cents off to a rise of 3 1/2¢.

Wheat bulls took command after the fact became apparent that exporters in the northwest who had lake vessels chartered were finding that despite the immense crop movement from first hands the car arrivals at the big terminals were proving too small for immediate requirement. Besides late advices from the northwest appeared to indicate that receipts would soon tend to diminish as farmers in that section were busy at fall work in the fields. Moreover, the increase of the domestic visible supply turned out to be less than expected.

Excellent weather and the large receipts northwest operated at first to give the advantage to the bears. Then, too, cable quotations were easy and optimistic reports were at hand as to the crop prospects of the winter crop in the southwest. When once the market, however, took the up-grade no important reaction place.

Corn developed firmness almost from the start. Export transactions formed the chief strengthening influence. Oats responded to persistent buying said to come from the seaboard. Notice was taken, too, of sharply higher prices than prevailed in Canada.

Higher quotations on hogs and grain put strength into provisions. Selling after the bulge, though, made the close of the market unsettled.

"The Masqueraders."

In the realm of Dulcie, the central character of the internationally famous play, "The Masqueraders," beautiful Hazel Dawn does the most remarkable work of her career. In this absorbing romance of contrasting love, the noted dramatist has achieved the impossible in the logical commingling of comedy and drama. The gay and delightful girl who auctions off a kiss for charity, tires of her life as a barmaid and marries a wealthy man, only

The grinning idols, squat Buddha, heavily embroidered hangings and exquisite Chinese porcelains are all from the collection of the late J. P. Morgan, and their recent exhibition at the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York City created an immense amount of discussion. Spring. There he lives the life of a hermit.

One day, wandering forth in one of his blackest moods, unable to hear the warning cries of the workmen, he is desperately injured by the explosion of a charge of dynamite. Marjorie Blair, a young society woman who is riding nearby, comes to his rescue and on his recovery the inevitable happens. Starr falls in love with Marjorie, and Marjorie, won by Starr's rich personality, returns his love, notwithstanding his deafness.

Soon afterward Starr marries Marjorie and once more the happiness and serenity of former days returns to him. Just when the future seems to him, however, Bobby Delorme, a characterless relative of Starr's, taking advantage of a past innocent flirtation with Marjorie, creates a situation which leads Starr to believe that Marjorie is unfaithful to him. Again he becomes embittered, but in the end he learns that he has been unjust to his wife, and the recovery of his lost hearing, fills him once more with the joy and zest of living.

Al. H. Wilson.

Al. H. Wilson and company will present the new periodic song play, "As Years Roll On," at the Auditorium tonight. This new Wilson offering is the joint product of Herbert Hall Winslow and Charles Horwitz, who have provided an atmosphere for the story by the expedients of scenery, costumes and change of localities, which tend to make the play varied and picturesque.

Henry Blossom, Librettist.

Henry Blossom, librettist, who with Victor Herbert, composer, wrote "The Only Girl," will be at the Auditorium theatre matinee and night tomorrow, November 3, comes from Missouri. While he was an insurance clerk in his father's office he played at writing magazine stories. When editors began to show his manuscripts consideration, unusual to the efforts of the beginner, and when checks for accepted stories began to come to him, Mr. Blossom wisely turned his attention to serious thoughts of writing as a means of livelihood.

a miller in a Holland village; in the second, a middle-aged clerk in New York City; in the third, a retired business man of wealth approaching the old age period of life.

The encouragement that he received from various magazines made him determine to try more ambitious writing, with the result that "The Documents in Evidence" was printed, which was a love story.

Blossom's first appearance as a librettist was made in 1904, when in conjunction with Alfred G. Robyn, "The Yankee Consul" was written. Then began the famous combination between himself and Victor Herbert, from which resulted "The Red Mill," written for Montgomery and Stone, "Donna," for Fritz Scheff, after separating from Victor Herbert, Mr. Blossom wrote "The Slim Princess" for Elsie Janis, for which Leslie Stuart, composer of "Floradora," supplied the music. This was followed by "All for the Ladies," in which Sam Bernard starred, with music by Alfred G. Robyn, his first collaborator. Then was brought about the renewal of association between Blossom and Herbert and its resultant, "The Only Girl."

East Side Mission Is Non-Sectarian

The East Side mission, at 317 Elm street, is a non-sectarian institution, soliciting the co-operation of Christians of all denominations, according to A. C. "The East Side mission is conducted as a non-sectarian institution," said Mr. Einstein, who is known as "the Christian Plumber." "Its purpose is to teach simple Jesus, and its aim is the uplift of humanity. The mission is the support of all pastors and Christian people in carrying on its work."

"Shore Nuff Hoss Thief" Has Activities Curtailed

There is still at least one self-confessed "shore nuff horse thief" in Texas. Moreover, he is in Waco, and incidentally in the county jail. His name is Walter Robinson, alias Walter Collins, colored.

Last Wednesday he stole a horse from a farmer near Riesel. Since then he has made one trade and one sale, ridden through Waco twice, and spent a few hours recuperating in the sanitarium on the side. Both the original farmer and the horse traders got their horses back by a queer trick of fate. The third farmer has gotten $9 of his $16 back, and Constable Leslie Stegall and Deputy B. P. Hobbs have the negro. After his criss-crossing maneuvers of the last few days, since which he has been sought high and low by the officers, the thief was nabbed by the two officers on Fifth street near Austin about 6 o'clock.

"If you hadn't caught me jes' right you shore would have had some fun wid dis nigger," said the grinning thief as Stegall and Hobbs removed a .45

Colt's from his person. The pistol had all six chambers loaded and there was a literal pocketful of cartridges in the negro's possession. "I was aimin' to play ball wid anybody that bothered me," declared the self-confessed "shore nuff country horse thief."

While the negro was saw-sawing back and forth through Waco and being looked for all over several counties, he was carried to the Providence sanitarium on an emergency call, following a fight. He asserted that he was "cut to the hollow" near the heart. Upon inspection, the physicians said that he was not badly hurt and the thief went free, his identity being undiscovered.

The original horse was stolen on Wednesday night from a farmer living near Riesel. This animal was ridden by the negro through Waco the same night and on to the China Springs neighborhood, about twenty miles distant, the next morning. Claiming that his beast had the "heaves," the thief managed a deal with a horse trader camping in the community. After making the trade the negro continued a few miles, but later slipped back by the trader's camp into Waco. From Waco the thief then goes down toward Harrison switch, and there sells his second animal for $16.

In the meantime, the owner of the first horse came into Waco and happened to see his horse in the possession of the trader on the square. He demanded and secured his property. This was Friday. This transferred the loss to the party of the second part. On the next day, Saturday, the farmer from Harrison switch rides his newly purchased steed into the city. The horse trader spied the animal and recognized his horse which he had traded to the thief. He demanded his property and got it.

When the officers connected up with the party of the first part yesterday afternoon, $8 of the last mentioned farmer's money was gotten.

A grand total taken shows a net loss of $6 resulting from the various transactions. It is presumed that this $6 was spent in violation of the Buy-It-Now slogan, as the negro spent Sunday night in West, after making his cash sale. On his fourth return to Waco, late yesterday afternoon, he was caught.

TELEGRAMS ANNOUNCE THAT 75 RUNNERS WILL BE SENT FROM SHREVEPORT.

Directors of Big Show Hold Last Regular Meeting Before Opening. Almost Ready for Opening.

Telegrams from Louis N. Brueggerhoff, secretary of the Shreveport Racing association, received at the meeting of the Cotton Palace directors last night, apprised the board that seventy-five running horses which have been participating in the races at Shreveport will be shipped at once to Waco to be entered in the Cotton Palace races. This brings the total entries in the runners' classes to 125 horses, in addition to sixty-five trotters and the more than forty entries in the classes especially for McLennan county horses. Every indication is that the Cotton Palace race meet will be one of the largest in the South, both in point of horses entered and prizes offered.

Director W. H. Hoffmann will have charge of the collection at the Cotton Palace this year. Announcement to this effect was made at the meeting of the directors last night.

Announcement of all first and second prizes in all the departments of the exposition will be made publicly in the coliseum or in the grandstand at the races. This arrangement is a new feature for the big show which it is expected will be pleasing to patrons. For the information of visitors, a huge bulletin board near the entrance of the main building will be used for posting the daily program of attractions in all parts of the grounds.

Each director of the Cotton Palace has agreed to make himself responsible for the entertainment of a number of the public men of the state who will be at the exposition on Public Sentinels' Day. The visitors in addition to the program of the exposition, the Cotton Palace grounds will be taken for auto rides over the city, and will be provided with other entertainment by their hosts.

Tickets for the football games at the exposition this fall will be placed on sale Thursday at Powers-Kelly Drug store.

A man on a motorcycle will be sent out today on a whirlwind trip over the county calling to the attention of farmers the details of the monster cotton parade which will be the feature of opening day. Handbills describing the parade and the offer of the Cotton Palace directors to buy fifty bales of cotton at the grounds on opening day at a price 2c a pound, or about $10 a bale, in advance of the market price will be distributed by the motorcycle rider.

A special meeting of the directors will be held on the grounds Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Several more special meetings will probably be held before the gates open Saturday morning.

FT. WORTH SALESMAN GIVES TESTIMONY

IN RECOMMENDING TANLAC HE STATES IT IS UNPARALLELED AS AN UNBUILDING TONIC.

Fort Worth, Texas, Oct. 30, 1915.—"I was exceedingly nervous and all run down and had practically no energy left," stated Mr. C. B. Hawes to the Tanlac man at Covey & Martin Company's store.

"When I read so much about what Tanlac has been doing and what a strong reconstructive tonic it is, and when it was so highly recommended to me by friends and acquaintances who are taking it, I decided to try one bottle anyhow."

"I must confess that I had very little faith in the new medicine to begin with and it was a great surprise to me when I began to notice a marked change in my condition after the first few days. Tanlac has built up my system, increased my appetite and as an unbuilding tonic I should say that it is unparalleled. I am recommending it to all my friends and relatives, for it has helped me so much."

"I nearly always feel sluggish and run down in the summer time, but this summer is going to be an exception, for I am going to continue taking Tanlac, as it seems to give me renewed energy."

Mr. Hawes boards at 1216 Jennings avenue, Fort Worth, and travels out of that city.

Tanlac will continue to be explained at W. B. Morrison's Drug Co.

SHRINERS PUSH PLANS FOR DAY AT EXPOSITION

LOCAL NOBLES MEET AT CALL OF CHAIRMAN LAYTON C. PUCKETT.

Final Meeting Will Be Held Friday Night—Grand Shriner's Ball and Parade.

Waco Shriner's met again last night at the new Masonic temple and practically completed plans for the observance of Shriner's Day at the Cotton Palace, Monday, Nov. 8. The final meeting will be held at the same place at 7:30 Friday night, Nov. 5. Indications are that there will be a large attendance of Nobles from every section of the state. The meeting last night was called by Layton C. Puckett, chairman of local Shriner's.

At the meeting last night the finance committee reported that three-fourths of the money needed had been collected and that the rest was assured. The refreshments committee has begun preparing its bill of fare and the program committee was instructed to print 500 programs.

The ball Monday night will be exclusively for Shriner's and their ladies and no one else will be permitted on the floor. The first four sets will be limited to Shriner's in full dress and after that any Shriner carrying his red, white and blue card will be admitted to the floor. A section of the coliseum will be reserved for the use of the Shriner's and their ladies and the seats will be covered with white cloth.

Sig. Cavallo, who is a Shriner, with his band, will be in the parade which will probably be led by patrols from one or more Texas temples. The following letter has been sent to Nobles all over the state by W. F. Quebe, secretary of the arrangements committee:

"Dear Sir and Noble: All Texas members of the A. A. O. N. M. S. are cordially invited to attend the Texas Cotton Palace exposition on Shriner's Day, Nov. 8, and to participate in a grand parade from the Hotel State house at 5 p. m. and a grand Shriner's ball in the coliseum at 9 p. m. For the ball all Nobles must appear in full dress and fez until after the third number, when any Noble will be permitted, upon presentation of their red, white and blue card.

"We have only a limited number of names of the Nobles in this locality and you being acquainted with all in your city, you will confer a great favor on your fellow Shriner's and the Waco Shriner's committee by extending this invitation to all the Nobles in your vicinity."

"If there are any Nobles in your locality that cannot conveniently bring a lady for the grand ball, you need only send a list of these parties' names to the secretary at Waco and they need will receive prompt attention and a beautiful young lady will be in waiting to assist us in making Shriner's Day a happy day for you."

"Yours in the faith,"
—W. F. QUEBE, Secretary."

West Avenue Parents Express Appreciation to City Officials

Resolutions of thanks to city officials for street improvements about the school building and to the school authorities for increased facilities in the building itself were adopted at the meeting of the Parent-Teacher association of the West Avenue school held in the school building yesterday afternoon. Seventy-five persons, including both men and women patrons of the school, were present at the meeting. Mrs. Burl R. Burr was elected president, succeeding Mrs. James D. Smith, resigned.

Following is the text of the resolutions adopted:

"The Mothers' club and Parent-Teachers' association of the West Avenue Grammar school offer hearty compliments to Street Commissioner John Dollins and to Street Superintendent Dan Ford in appreciation of the excellent work in grading streets between Herring avenue and the West Avenue school, and the work on Fifteenth street which gives access to so many children of this school. In view of the impassable conditions on Fifteenth street last winter, their being no sidewalks, the work now done is most acceptable and we thank these officers for their effort to meet our children's needs."

"We have viewed today the beautifully screened basement of the West Avenue Grammar school where the lunch room and domestic science departments are located with sincere pleasure and our thanks are now earnestly expressed to Business Agent E. H. Vaden acting for the committee on buildings of our board of education. In this connection also, we believe the installation of electric lights in the building, a necessity that
